

METABOLOMICS WORKSHOP: FROM STUDY DESIGN TO METABOLITE ANNOTATION

UNIVERSITY OF PRETORIA

7-11 MARCH 2016

Metabolomics is now used routinely in a number of applications, including basic and clinical research, microbiology, agriculture, food science, pharmaceutical research, nutrition, environmental science and the development of biofuels. The African Centre for Gene Technologies (ACGT) with kind funding from The Bioinformatics Service Platform (BSP) will host an exciting 5-day Metabolomics workshop using current open-source tools. The workshop aims to provide a platform for discussion of the key questions and challenges in the field of metabolomics, from study design to metabolite identification. The workshop has been designed to include lectures, computer-based tutorial sessions, participant presentations and interactive round table discussion. Confirmed speakers for workshop include:

- Dr. Reza Salek (University of Cambridge)
- Dr. Karl Burgess (University of Glasgow)
- Dr. Ron Wehren (Wageningen University)
- Prof Ian Dubery (University of Johannesburg)
- Dr. Edwin Madala (University of Johannesburg)
- Mr. Fidele Tugizimana (University of Johannesburg)
- Prof Alvaro Viljoen (Tshwane University of Technology)
